Reading Comprehension : (50 points)
Read the text and complete the tasks below : (30 points)
TIP 1 : _____ It's so easy to make excuses and find ways to avoid the thing you know you should be doing. Experts advise us to break this habit by becoming aware of our own excuses. The 'right time' to do something never arrives: the best time to do something is usually now. Once you've got started, you'll probably find that it wasn't as hard as you thought.
TIP 2 : _____ It's important to make yourself a 'to do' list or exam revision timetable, but remember that listing things isn't the same as doing them (see Tip 1!). Once you've worked out what needs to be done, decide which tasks have the highest priority and which can be left till later.
TIP 3 : _____ It's inevitable that things don't always go as well as you expect them to. If you find that you've 'hit a wall', there are two things you can do. First, persevere: with a bit more effort, you may find that you break through the wall. But if that doesn't work, try having a (short) break. Do something completely different, and come back to the task.
TIP 4 : _____ Even if you're under stress, there's no point making yourself ill – that will just make the pressure worse. Make sure you remember to eat regularly and healthily, and, even though it may be hard, try to get enough sleep.
TIP 5 : _____ You can't always make your brain work 'on demand'. Don't spend too long on one task, and learn to recognise when you're slowing down. Divide large tasks into smaller parts that are easier to manage, and reward yourself for completing them by doing something fun.

A. Read the article. Then choose the best title a-e for each tip. (5 points)

More and more university students are finding ways to start small businesses while they are still in school. Let's take a look at a few enterprising undergraduates and their companies.
As a student at the University of Missouri, Brian Laoruangroch used to sell renewed cell phones on eBay as a hobby. But when Brian realized how much money he could make by buying, fixing, and reselling phones . He founded a company called Green Mobile, which now has local branches about 20 employees and he decided to create his own website to resell the phones. Brian said balancing work and studies was challenging , but he didn't forget to pay attention in class. " I was learning important business concepts while I was using them in my own business , " he said.

Whitney Williams has always been creative , and she enjoys making things in her spare time. While in elementary school, she sold handmade stationery to people in her neighborhood . When Whitney visited Italy, she fell in love with the handmade jewelry she saw there. It inspired her to start her own jewelry business . Instead of partying with friends or travelling , Whitney spent most of her weekends for the next two years selling her high-quality jewelry at small shows and private sales and sold direct to the public around the world. As a result , the Whitney Williams Collection is now produced .

As a competitive swimmer, Zac Workman became very familiar with energy drinks. However, Zac found problems with most energy drinks. They either tasted bad, used chemicals that weren't healthy , or made the user feel tired again when their surgery energy was used up. This encouraged Zac to do some research when he got to the University of Indiana . Using an old family recipe for fruit punch, to develop an energy drink with natural ingredients , and he sold directly to his fellow students . His energy drinks , called Punch , and found a partner to produce it . As his business grows , Zac says he's learning on the job. " People would think it would be difficult to balance class and a business , " he said , " but I'm learning more now than I ever have in the classroom. "

Read the text and complete the tasks below : (30 points)

The results of a new poll show that financial problems have taken over from the environment as the main concerns for young people. The survey asked over 12,000 people aged between 14 and 18 what they were most worried about. The clear 'winner' was 'finding a job', while the environment was only the seventh greatest worry. This compares with similar polls in the last fifteen years, when environmental worries came first.

One of the poll's organizer's commented that the results demonstrated a clear change in attitude. 'It's not just that getting a job is the main worry,' he said. 'Also included in the top six worries were getting into debt (6th) and passing exams (4th=). I'm convinced that there's a connection because of changes in the job market, there is more and more pressure on young people nowadays to pass exams and go on to university in the hope of finding a good job. Rising university fees make it inevitable that many students graduate from university with huge debts.'

Other concerns mentioned by large numbers of young people also tended to be personal rather than social, including worries about relationships (2nd), health (3rd) and 'fitting in with peers' (4th=).

Annette Coleman, director of the green earth organisation, said yesterday that she was 'disappointed, but not surprised' at the fall in the number of young people concerned about the environment. 'It's not that environmental concerns are less urgent than before – quite the opposite in fact.

It's just that after decades of publicity on topics like climate change, so little has actually changed. A lot of people get the feeling that there's nothing we can do about it, and young people in particular tend to be impatient. Of course, the other thing is that in times of economic difficulty, people are more likely to focus on worries that are more immediate and have an impact on their daily lives.'

My dream job is to be a professional photographer. I remember when I was 8 years old, I'd always steal my mothers' camera and take pictures of nature and life in general, and spend hours making the perfect moment to take pictures. To be a photographer, you must have the three P's: patience, passion, and perfection. I would love to be a famous photographer, not for the fame, but for the respect of taking people's most beloved moments to reserve them for a life time.

Anna Garcia

Text B

My dream Job is to be a vet! I love animals very much and I know I would never get bored of being a vet, taking care of them would never be a problem to me. Ever since I was five years old, I said and knew that I wanted to be a vet to help and care for every animal that I got in my hands on. And to be honest, the pay is very good and life would be great knowing that I have money for my family and going to work loving every moment. My dream job is not far away and I will try my best to finish college and be a vet one day.

Tony Brown

Text C

Education is very important in life, so one of my dream jobs is be a teacher. I want to be a teacher because I love little kids and I have a lot of patience to be around them. I really want to teach in a kindergarten or in an elementary school so that I can help children to know how to read, talk and to have an education when they grow up. TEXT A: Most schools claim to prepare students for the world of work, but Milton Secondary School takes the claim very seriously. Before they even join the school, future pupils get an informal interview at their primary school to discuss their hopes and preferences for the future.

The emphasis on employment continues during the first two years at Milton, and then in the third year all pupils spend a day doing work experience at a local company. Two years later, this becomes a whole week spent with a company, usually arranged by the students themselves.

Throughout their secondary education, students have professional careers advice , which costs the school over £30,000 a year. Head teacher Harriet Downs believes it's worth it, though: ³ 'Teachers aren't trained as careers advisers,' she says, 'so we bring in professional help. It's part of a coordinated programme that aims to make students aware of the employment options available, and how to make the most of them. It's too late to start talking about work in their final year.

TEXT B : In a speech yesterday, the Education Minister advised students to avoid arts subjects and choose science or maths if they want to improve their job prospects. In the past, he said, arts subjects like languages and history were chosen by students who didn't have a clear idea of what they wanted to do in the future.

He explained that this was because of a feeling that they involved skills that were useful for many different jobs, but he questioned whether this was still true: 'Nowadays, we know differently, don't we ? The best subjects for keeping your options open are ones like science, technology and engineering.'

It quickly became clear that the Minister's words were controversial, with teachers and university heads reacting strongly to his advice. 'Of course science and technology are important,' said one, 'but it would be completely wrong to neglect the arts. They provide important skills and an understanding of the world and people in general. Also, the economy depends as much on creativity as on technical knowledge.'

A. Read the text and find answers to the questions below :- (9 points)

1. What claim does Milton Secondary School take seriously ? _____
2. Why aren't teachers at Milton School expected to give students professional careers ? _____

Question Number Two : (20 points)

1 There are limits to how many sports can be included in the Olympic Games. In the 2012 Summer Games, there were 26, and the International Olympic Committee (IOC) have added two more for 2016 (golf and rugby sevens). There are various criteria that the IOC bases its decisions on, but the most important is probably international popularity. Sports tend to get included if they have a tradition and are played and watched by enough people in enough countries.

2 However, this leads to an interesting question. Why was baseball dropped for 2012 although it has a large following in South America and Asia? The reason for leaving it out, according to some, is a combination of geography and politics: there is little interest in this sport in Europe.

3 In fact it's more mysterious why certain sports are included. Take speed walking, for example, the rules say that the athletes have to have both feet in contact with the ground at all times, and must keep their legs straight. The result, to me at least, looks very silly.

4 More importantly, it breaks one of my two personal rules for judging serious sports because it puts artificial limits on what can be done. This is why I can't take any sport seriously if it involves doing something in water that is more naturally done out of water. My other rule is that the scoring has to be objective and measurable, not a matter of opinion. And of course both of these criteria would rule out everyone's favorite example of an Olympic non-sport: synchronized swimming.

A. Answer the following questions: (6 points)

1. What additional sports are to be practiced in 2016?
a. _____ b. _____
2. Why was baseball left out? _____
3. Mention the writer's two personal rules for judging serious sports?

Read the text about sports in and complete the tasks below : (30 points)

Are today's young sports stars overpaid? It's an opinion you'll often hear repeated, especially in the world of football. The figures are astonishing. When the Welsh player Gareth Bale joined Real Madrid in 2013, his reported salary was around £250,000 a week or, if you prefer, £13 million a year. So every week he earns as much as the average Real supporter makes in ten years. This may be an extreme example, but there are a lot more footballers around the world earning almost as much.

It's a situation that makes some people very angry, but those who are infuriated by it often forget what players have to do to get to the top, and the risks involved. A new book by Wayne Barton tells the story of some of those who fell on the way up. These are young men who achieved the dream of playing for the famous club Manchester United, but only had short careers, often because of injuries. Take young Tony Gill, for example, who was on his way to becoming a regular first team player when he hurt his leg and was never able to recover, or the young forward Deinol Graham, who broke his arm and never played professionally again.

The list of these tragedies goes on, but the story that stands out is that of Giuliano Maiorana. At the age of 19, he was playing for an amateur team in Cambridge shire, England when he was noticed by one of Manchester United's many scouts, who was searching the lower levels of football for promising young players. At first Giuliano thought, the offer of a trial for the world-famous Manchester club was a joke. It wasn't – only months later, he played his first match at United's home ground, Old Trafford. He still remembers the mixture of excitement and terror he felt.

A. Choose the best title for each paragraph then write it on the lines provided: (6 points)

- Examples of sad stories
- Stories of modern book
- Sports payment

B. Answer the following questions: (10 points)

- What nationality is Gareth Bale? _____
- What is a common reason why young players stop playing? _____
- What did Giuliano Maiorana think when he was first asked to play for Manchester United? _____
- How did Giuliano Maiorana feel the first time he played for Manchester United? _____

C. Decide if the statements are True or False according to the text: (6 points)

- When the Welsh player Gareth Bale joined Real Madrid in 2013, he got a very high salary. ()
- Tony Gill, , who was on his way to becoming a regular first team player when he hurt his arm. ()
- At the age of 19, Giuliano Maiorana was playing for an amateur team in Cambridge shire. ()

Question Number Two : (20 points)

Read the following text then do the tasks below:

Comfort zone is a beautiful place, but nothing ever grows there, except laziness, anxiety and fears. Imagine something you do every day or all the time, like brushing your teeth, watching TV, reading news or cooking breakfast. Daily activities that you're used to won't make you feel uncomfortable or anxious. Why? They belong to your comfort zone. For us, familiarity is not just comfortable but seems to be safe. That's why we needn't move out of our comfort zone. You should do the things, which help you grow and achieve your aim, make your dreams come true. To get there, you might need to develop or learn new skills, which require trying new things. Here three tips help you step out of your comfort zone.

- Turn your negative thoughts into reality-based, positive thoughts. Buddha said: Mind is everything. You are what you think! You become what you think!
- The only person, who prevents you from getting out of your comfort zone is YOU. Your fear is not real. Your fear lives in the thoughts of the future. The only person, who can help you to step out of your comfort zone is YOU.
- To sum everything up, approximately 90% of the population live in their comfort zone. Thus, they have a middle life. Instead of doing something, they chose to complain and stay in their comfort zone. How did I do it? That's not a secret. The first step was to decide to get out of my comfort zone. I did it. Then, I needed something that would remind me every day about it. And

What could help me not to forget about it? The answer : something motivational! the quote: "Life begins at the end of your comfort zone".

Read the text about three young business people experience of starting up in business and complete the tasks below : (20 points)

Three years ago, when he was just fourteen, Pete Finn developed an app that was so popular that he sold it to a major IT company, giving him the money to spend on developing new ideas. His advice: 'I never had any training. I just jumped straight into things. After all, you don't want to spend a long time getting everything perfect and then find the market has disappeared. But my lack of experience meant that I made some expensive mistakes at first. In the end, someone warned me against putting all my profits into developing new ideas instead of keeping some back to pay tax. But before that I'd had some unpleasant moments.'

Seventeen-year-old Anita Simons started out making jewellery for friends and now sells it to top fashion shops and direct to the public via her online company. She says: 'One of the most important things I've had to learn to do is decide the most effective way of spending money. You need to work out the financial figures and have them checked by someone who understands money. Luckily my parents are both in business themselves, so they advised me to spend more on marketing, less on product development, or whatever. Wherever it comes from, getting good advice is very important.'

Hashem Ali is the nineteen-year-old owner of a company that makes online music videos. His top tips: 'I think initially the key thing is to understand the market. Work out who your potential customers are, who your competitors are, what they offer and how you could do it better. It's easy these days to get professional help with this kind of market research. After that, just be determined and don't give up if things get difficult (which they almost certainly will at some point). Starting and running a business is hard work. If you think it's only going to be a nine-to-five job, you should go and do something else.'
